In the event of a delivery failure of equities assets on B3 market for non-resident clients, client's local custodian will be completely aware and, simultaneously, the Broker will inform its foreign intermediary per e-mail. Upon formal authorization from the foreign intermediary, the Broker may proceed with the loan of the defaulting asset on B3 market to delivery it within the settlement window. If it is possible to borrow shares, the Broker will deposit the associated collateral, on behalf of the foreign client, to guarantee the stock lending. intermediation agreement, collect B3's fees and fines from the client. In cases where this scenario occurs, the Broker will notify the client's local custodian providing all financial details.

If part or all the client's defaulting asset delivery remains opened after the stock lending and compulsory loan attempt by B3, and the client does not deliver the asset on the day following the settlement (T+3), the failure may go into BUY IN, which the foreign intermediary will be notified in advance and will be updated by the Broker throughout the flow, including minimum financial fines in accordance with B3's operational manual. Likewise, the Broker may, at its discretion and as provided for in the intermediation agreement, collect B3 fees and fines from the client. In cases where this scenario occurs, the Broker will notify the client's local custodian providing all financial details.

In the case of non-receipt of equity assets by the foreign institutional client in a Buy trade, the non-resident client's custodian will monitor the entire process and the Broker will inform its foreign intermediary, by email and for acknowledgment, providing the details, including attention alerts about the possible opening of a new position if the client repurchases assets that are already in the failure treatment process and for the client to confirm with its local custodian their interest in receiving the assets after the failure.

All communication from the Broker will provide the status of the failure handling procedure until its completion, aligned with the flow carried out in parallel by the custodian with its non resident client, informing trade details, such as asset, quantity, trade date and sharing the actions that can be potentially performed by the client with their respective deadlines.

For foreign clients who are buying shares, communication by email to the foreign intermediary may occur after the conclusion of the asset delivery window on T+2, as this is the final moment for the selling client to deliver the shares and the compulsory loan alternative carried out by B3. For the foreign client at the selling end, communication by email to the foreign intermediary may begin during T+1, after confirmations and matches executed in the pre-matching process with the foreign client's custodian, where the insufficient balance is confirmed.

In the case of settlement failures for local clients with settlement at the Broker, the process and descriptions above will apply with the difference that communication by email will be maintained directly with the client.
